Man Is Wonderful
A Little Science
Those Seven Lambs
Meat Builds Strength

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

MADAME DE SEVIGNE said "the more I see of men, the more I admire dogs." She would not admire them if alive now. The more we see of men, at their best, the less we admire their intelligence. Railroad wrecks are caused by defective rails. Transverse fissures within the steel, could be found only after the rail gave way and a train was derailed.

But science can see things invisible to man. The New York Central railroad has perfected a device that detects flaws in the steel, marks on paper each rail defective and splashes paint automatically on the weak spot, that track walkers may see it. This device will be run over the New York Central tracks at least once a year.

THE MASSACHUSETTS Institute of Technology will construct an X ray tube of fifteen million volts capacity, to fire protons at a target the object being to disintegrate the atom.

A proton, which is at the center of every atom, like our sun at the center of our solar system, is two thousand times heavier than the electrons that revolve around it.

To bombard electrons with protons would be like bombarding this little earth with projectiles the size of the planet Jupiter. Try to imagine that.

SCIENTISTS HOPE that eventually the alchemists' dream of changing base metals into gold may come true.

We know that elements do change in course of time.

Professor J. Arthur Thomson of the University of Aberdeen tells you "uranium may change into radium, that radium may produce helium, and lead is the final stable result when the changes of uranium are complete."

How inspiring for a plumber to reflect that the lead pipe joint that he is now "wiping" was once uranium, then radium, then helium the light gas that raises our dirigibles, and is now heavy lead!

Some scientists say that breaking up the atom may prove to be very dangerous business. We may know about that when the fifteen million volt tube starts working.

PERHAPS you read the story of seven lambs published by Senator Capper. It told of seven lambs sold by a farmer to a wholesale butcher for $8. The story said the farmer got only $3 for his seven lambs, and after he paid the cost of selling, plus government inspection, he had only 75 cents left, while the consumers that ate the lambs paid $83.70 for the meat.

Now the "Institute of American Meat Packers" would like you to hear its side of the story, told as follows: "The lambs were sold in Denver, not Chicago. They were not lambs at all, but old ewes, worth 50 cents a hundred pounds, and sold at that price."

The statement that the consumer paid $83.70 for 75 cents' worth of lamb on the farm is untrue, according to the packers' institute. Meat packers make a very small profit on their turnover, not more than 4 per cent. It is also known that distribution, which means retail selling, is very expensive. The rest of the argument can be left to the meat packers' institute. Senator Capper of Kansas and Mr. Ferris, the farmer who is alleged

PLAN CONFERENCE

U. S. Joins in Move To End Strife; Fighting Continues.

By The Associated Press

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 29—Representatives of the Chinese and Japanese commands at Shanghai have agreed to withdraw their troops from the present battle line, Sir John Simon informed the League of Nations council this evening, and Japan's representative on the council provisionally accepted a proposal for a conference at Shanghai to restore peace.

This conference would bring together not only the two belligerents but also the United States, Great Britain and the other neutral powers directly concerned.

Supported by U. S.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, said he had been authorized to pledge the full support of the United States to this concerted move for peace.

The plan calls for an immediate end of the armed conflict in the Shanghai area and the simultaneous withdrawal of both the Chinese and Japanese armies. Thereafter the conference would take place but if the fighting is not stopped there would be no such conference, said Sir John.

This agreement, reached aboard the British flagship at Shanghai, was referred to the governments at Nanking and Tokyo for confirmation the British foreign secretary said.

Then Joseph Paul-Boncour, the French delegate, proposed a conference at Shanghai, of the Chinese, the Japanese and representatives of the neutral powers interested, with a view to ending the conflict.

This conference, he said, would be based on the principle that Japan has no political ambitions in the Shanghai area.

Thereupon Dino Grandi, for Italy, and Sir John Simon pledged the full support of their governments.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Tuesday, March 1—In one last drive before Japan's reinforcements could go into action, the Chinese sent a wave of infantry across Chapel at 2 o'clock this morning, caught the Japanese napping and pushed them back before a counter attack could be organized.

SHANGHAI, Feb 29—The Chinese battle line, fighting fiercely on a new front to Chapei, wavered and fell back slightly today under a thunderous artillery bombardment, in the midst of negotiations for peace and declarations for more widespread hostilities around Shanghai.

The battle had shifted back to Chapei from Klangwan, that stubbornly defended little village half way between Shanghai and Woosung, which the Japanese captured Sunday ending a long and bitter campaign.

After a terrific day-long battle the Japanese, aided by big guns on warships in the river, claimed they smashed the Chinese defenses, captured a cemetery west of Hongkew park, and occupied positions near the American-owned Baptist Mission hospital.

While the battle was in progress, and shortly after a peace conference had ended, Japanese Consul General Kuramatsu Murai served notice on Mayor Wu Teh-Chen of Shanghai that unless the Chinese cease bringing in reinforcements, the Japanese operations would be extended over a 50-mile area around the city "on a scale not even

MRS. R. D. SIMPSON

PERSONS born on Feb. 29 came into their own today and may, if they choose, celebrate a real birthday anniversary. Among those celebrating in the county today are Miss Erma Prettyman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Prettyman of 201 Orchard street. Miss Elinor Cowan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cowan of 665 Girard avenue, Miss Alice Marie Greenland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Greenland of 573 Avondale avenue and Mrs. R. D. Simpson of the Rayl and Uncapher pike.

Aside from Miss Greenland, who plans to entertain some of her school friends tonight, these celebrants will not observe the anniversary with any social celebration.

Miss Prettyman and Miss Cowan are juniors at Harding High school and Miss Greenland is enrolled in the sophomore class. Miss Prettyman is a member of Tri-Hi Girl Reserves and the Aim High group. She is pursuing a study course of general subjects. Miss Cowan is enrolled in a college preparatory course. She also is a member of the Girl Reserves. The three students are celebrating their fourth real birthday anniversary and all are 16 years of age. Mrs. Simpson, who is 25, is celebrating her seventh anniversary.

WOMEN RULE CITY— BUT ONLY FOR A DAY

Aurora, Ill., "Fair Sex" Observes Leap Year Day by Ousting Men from Jobs.

By The Associated Press

AURORA, Ill., Feb. 29—This city of 50,000 awoke leap year day to be ruled by the powder puff.

Sixteen bachelor girls headed by madam the mayor—Miss Mildred Pratt—were showing the men how to run the municipal government.

A hundred women eased the masterly males out of their managerial seats in the banks, the newspaper office, stores, hotels and all marts of trade.

Whether they liked it or not, early risers found—

Two score fair but determined traffic cops with orders from Police Chief Dorothy Ward to give "tickets that stick."

Magistrate Florence Atkins ready to help suppress any crime wave—and who would dare start one?

Warden Mildred McDowell all set to hand out bread and water at the city lockup.

Over at fire headquarters, Ruth Cole, and "Miss Illinois" at the Atlantic City beauty pageant three years ago, tucked her blonde curls into the fire chief's hat and with her corps of a dozen firewomen relieved the male night shift in time for breakfast.

Privileges for the males? They were permitted to sign the meal checks at the Elks' club luncheon in honor of the ruling Eves and the eligibles who would accept proposals during the day could get the ceremony performed for nothing.

There were malcontents. They gathered about the soft drink parlor—those who dared—which alone of all places in the city voiced its protest in chalk on the window:

"Custer's last stand: The hand that rocks the cradle doesn't rule here."

TWO LOCAL MEN HURT IN CRASH

Ray Sutton and Ralph Rawlings Taken to Massillon Hospital.

AUTO SKIDS, HITS POLE

Rawlings Suffers Slight Concussion of Brain; Sutton's Head Cut.

Ray Sutton of south Vine street and Ralph Rawlings of east Church street are in a Massillon hospital following an accident yesterday morning while enroute to New York City.

Rawlings' injuries were the most serious. He suffered a slight concussion of the brain, two fingers were broken and his right arm and hip hurt. Sutton's injuries consisted of a deep scalp wound, which required 20 stitches to close, and bruises.

The car, driven by Sutton, skidded on a long hill into Massillon, and crashed into a telephone pole. Rawlings was on the side of the car which struck the pole. In the smash-up, Sutton moved the gears into reverse and the car careened across the street and nearly struck a garage.

A man standing in front of the garage witnessed the first crash and when he saw the car headed for the building, jumped on the runningboard and switched off the ignition.

The hill was steep and thinly covered with snow, Sutton told his mother, Mrs. Dora B. Sutton of 341 south Vine street, when she visited him yesterday.

Sutton was cut across the head by the windshield wiper on the car. The machine was demolished.

Rawlings has charge of the millinery department of the Uhler-Phillips Co. and Sutton is a member of the firm of Sutton & Lightner on west Center street. Both were enroute to New York City to buy spring stocks. They left here at 5 a. m.

SANDERS BOUND OVER ON MURDER CHARGE

Confessed Accomplice in Fatal DeCliff Holdup Waives Examination.

Charles Sanders, 32, confessed Negro accomplice of William Carter, 18, also colored, in the murder of Green G. Miller, 73, DeCliff grocer, today waived examination in municipal court and was bound over to the grand jury on a first degree murder charge.

Carter pleaded guilty to a similar charge last Thursday morning and was bound over. Sanders pleaded not guilty when arraigned with Carter, stating that he accompanied Carter in the holdup but fired no shots. He waived examination after conferring with Attorney Frank Wiedemann.

The next session of the grand jury will be in May unless the court orders a special session before that time.

Both Carter and Sanders have signed confessions telling how they attempted to hold up the DeCliff grocery last New Year's day and how Carter fired at Miller when the aged grocer refused to obey his commands.

Ohio's Death Rate Last Year Listed as Lowest Since 1908

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 29—The year 1931 was a healthy one for Ohio. The death rate was [illegible] per 1,000 population, the lowest ever recorded for any year since the establishment [illegible] of the division of vital statistics in the state department of health division officials stated today.

During the year, 75,577 deaths were recorded as compared with 78,216 in 1930, when the rate was 11.4 per 1,000 population. The decrease amounted to two deaths daily.

The greatest reduction in any single cause of death, the division reported, was in accidents. The decrease in this class totaled 1,065.

Increases were reported in influenza, cerebral hemorrhage, pneumonia, cancer, suicide, scarlet fever, diphtheria and diabetis.

A shadow of the disastrous Ohio penitentiary fire was found in the report. Conflagration deaths in 1930, the year of the prison fire in which 320 convicts met death, totaled 394, while in 1931 the total was 46.

PICKETS REDUCE SPEAKEASY LIST

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 29 — In Detroit a patrolman stands in front of every one of the 981 known speakeasies. The idea is to question every one who would enter. This form of "picketing" has reduced the number of known speakeasies from 1,561 listed last August. Half a dozen cabarets have closed from declining business, customers declining to run the gauntlet of police questioning.

MINE SHAFT YIELDS EXPLOSION VICTIMS

22 Victims Recovered from Debris of Pennsylvania Coal Shaft.

By The Associated Press

POCAHONTAS, Va., Feb. 29 — With 22 bodies recovered, searchers delved into the heart of the Boissevain coal mine today for 16 other men believed killed in an explosion early Saturday.

Working in relays, rescue crews pushed through everts, splintered timbers and slate to recover the first burned and mutilated bodies last night. Eight were immediately brought to the surface to the improvised morgue where 37 coffins awaited.

All except seven of those caught in the blast were married.

Cold and the treacherous mass of debris hindered speed in pushing through the underground passages but hope was held for recovery of all bodies today. Only when exhausted did the searchers come to the surface, there to be fed by the silent women who refused to leave until the dead had all been found.

Worn by their long vigil, most of the bereaved widows and children returned to their homes at midnight but were back at the mine shaft at daybreak.

The scene of the explosion was two miles beneath the surface and word of progress came slowly.

No decision as to the cause of the blast was reached although the general belief was that a powder explosion might have occurred. The mine is non-gaseous. Fifty men were at work at the time, but a dozen escaped.

NEW ASSAULT STIRS HAWAII

Honolulu Again Tense as Wife of U. S. Navy Man Is Attacked.

FEDERAL AID IS SOUGHT

Local Law Enforcement Again Subjected to Widespread Criticism.

By The Associated Press

HONOLULU, Feb. 29 Tension which gripped Honolulu in recent months because of attacks upon women and an attendant lynching, was revived today by an assault upon the wife of an enlisted man of the United States navy.

The victim, Mrs. Kathleen Hope, wife of John H. Hope, submarine machinist, was the second naval wife assaulted here in recent months.

Her attacker entered her home with a pistol Saturday night, bound her to a bed with stockings, assaulted her and then calmly helped himself to cigars on a table.

Then he terrorized Mrs. D. W. Curry, wife of another enlisted man, in an adjoining home. The husbands of the two women are at sea.

Officers arrested Edward Wong, 23, Chinese, but renewed the search when Mrs. Hope was unable to positively identify Wong and said she believed her attacker to be a Japanese.

The attack brought renewal of charges that local authorities could not cope with the situation and a plea that the federal government intervene.

The charges recalled widespread criticism of local law enforcement which followed the assault last September upon Mrs. Thomas H. Massie, wife of a naval lieutenant, and the resultant lynching of one of her alleged attackers.

The attack on Mrs. Hope came scarcely 10 days before the scheduled trial of Lieut. Massie, Mrs. Granville Fortescue mother of Mrs. Massie and two naval enlisted men accused of the murder of Joseph Kahahawai suspected attacker of Mrs. Massie.

SHOTGUN USED IN ROBBERY

Driver Sleeps Calmly on Bench While Others Are Lined Up Along Wall.

MANAGER IS SLUGGED

Mistakes "Tokens" for Money, Hits Ray Maag. Then Apologizes.

Two armed bandits, one armed with a sawed-off shotgun and the other with a revolver, held up Ray Maag, president and general manager of the Marion Rapid Transit Co four bus drivers and two visitors at the office of the company on north Main street shortly before 1 a. m. yesterday, escaping with $281, a portion of which was in small change turned in by the drivers a few minutes before.

Although the two drove north on Main street following the robbery, the finding of the money drawer which had contained the money and which had been taken by the robbers, near a filling station south of the city on the Delaware road, leads the police to believe they headed for Columbus.

Robber Strikes Maag

Maag was struck on the side of the face by one of the robbers when he discovered what he thought was a bag containing money, but which proved to be bus "tokens" issued by the company. He afterwards apologized with the explanation that he thought they were "holding out on him."

Walter Groves, one of the drivers, slept calmly through the robbery while Everett Smith, a visitor, lost a valuable white gold wrist watch when it was discovered by one of the robbers.

Louis Brannum of 253 Wilson avenue, night mechanic, was in the rear of the garage working and did not learn about the robbery until the bandits had left.

Four bus drivers, Roger Minyoung, E. M. Evans, Lee Hill and Walter Groves, had completed their last trip for the night and all but Groves, who was asleep on a bench, were seated around a radio in a room adjoining the office shortly before 1 a. m. They paid no particular attention to a stranger who entered quietly, until he reached the door of the office. He suddenly produced a revolver with the command that they all remain seated.

Before the men could recover from their surprise, the robber stepped into the office to cover Maag who was seated at a desk. He was followed by a second robber who took a position between the two large front windows. The barrel of a sawed-off shotgun protruded from beneath his coat. Both men were careful to keep their backs toward the windows and their guns invisible from the street.

Finds Groves Asleep

It was at this point that the robber with the shotgun discovered Groves asleep on a bench. Waking over he hit him [illegible] times in an unsuccessful attempt to awaken him. Satisfied that he was not likely to awaken, he returned to his post. Catching sight of the watch on Smith's wrist, the robber said to his companion, "That boy over there has a very pretty wrist watch we might as well have." As the second robber ordered Smith to remove the watch he asked where he had gotten it and how much he had paid and offered to leave the watch if Smith would give him the amount of money it was worth.

Placing the watch in his pocket, the robber ordered all of the men into the office where they were lined up along the wall. Maag was ordered to open the safe. A drawer containing a quantity of small change was taken by the men who did not stop to remove the contents. Asked by Maag if they wanted the nickels and pennies, they said they "wanted every cent." A dime which fell on the floor they refused to pick up, saying, "We will leave that for the kid's bank."

Take Two Guns

A shotgun found by one of the men in a corner of the office and a revolver which he forced Maag to turn over to him, were taken with the words, "Some one might get shot if we leave these here." As they were about to leave they inquired solicitiously of the bus drivers if they had "car fare home."

After placing all of the money in the drawer, the two backed out of the office with a warning to the men that they were not to attempt to leave the office or to telephone the police for five minutes. Ignoring the warning, Maag called the police at once. It is the belief that a third member of the gang was waiting in a car nearby as the robbers had scarcely left when the men watching in the office saw a Ford coupe go north.

No attempt to search the men for money while they were lined up in the office was made by the robbers and Smith was the only one of the six to suffer any personal loss. They inquired about the ownership of an automobile parked on the opposite side of the street and when told it was the property of Leo Hill. They asked about the keys and were told they were in the car. The machine, however, was not molested.

One of the men was described by Maag as being about 35 years of age, five feet 11 inches tall and weighing about 160 pounds and wearing a brown overcoat and a black hat. The other was between 25 and 30 years of age, about five feet eight inches tall, and weighing about 150 pounds. He wore a light overcoat and light hat.

HOOVER CALLS FOR STRONGER U. S. LAWS

Bankruptcy, Crime Remedies Urged; Wants Washington Thoroughly "Dry."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29—Plugging of loopholes in the federal bankruptcy and criminal laws — coupled with a strengthened enforcement of prohibition in the capital—was advocated to congress today by President Hoover in a special message.

Speaking of the dry law for the first time since the submission of the Wickersham report, the President urged speedy action on his previous recommendation that the District of Columbia be made a model enforcement city for the nation.

Also, in ending his communication, the President said that as important as his recommendations were—"We must all keep before us that effective administration of the law in a republic requires not only adequate and proper machinery, honest and capable officials, but above all a citizenry imbued with a spirit of respect for law."

List of Recommendations

His recommendations included:

Creation of additional judgeships to relieve congestion.

Authorization for the supreme court to prescribe rules to expedite action on appeals.

Permitting the accused to waive the requirement of grand jury indictment.

Provisions that if 12 eligible grand jurors vote for indictment, it can not be invalidated by the presence of ineligibles on the grand jury.

Limitation of time for making motions to quash indictments because of disqualification of grand jurors.

Enabling the federal government to turn accused children over to state authorities to be dealt with by juvenile courts.

Providing that where a corporation organized under the laws of one state, carries on business in another state, it shall be treated as a citizen of the state where it does business as respect suits within that state between it and residents there and arising out of business done in the state.

Points Out Bankruptcy Flaws

The President strongly criticized flaws in the present bankruptcy laws. He pointed out that losses to creditors soared in 1931 to a total of $911,000,000. The present law, he said, "holds out every inducement for waste of assets long after business failure has become inevitable," and, in addition permits wasteful exploitation.

As he expressed it, the aims of revised bankruptcy legislation should be to relieve honest but unfortunate debtors of an overwhelming burden of debt; "to effect a prompt and economical liquidation of insolvent estates; and to discourage fraud and needless waste of assets by withholding relief from debtors in proper cases."

Under his proposals for stricter prohibition enforcement in this city, which were published last year and now are embodied in pending legislation, the police would be clothed with the authority of federal prohibition agents. He devoted but a single paragraph to the subject today.

President Hoover transmitted to congress along with his message a report on bankruptcy made by the department of justice following a lengthy investigation.

approached by the hostilities thus far.

Railway in Jeopardy

His letter said the Japanese would be forced in "self-defense" to destroy the Shanghai-Nanking railway as far west as Soochow, 50 miles away, and the Shanghai-Hangchow railway, as far as Kashing, 50 miles to the southwest.

Such hostilities would threaten one of the most thickly populated and richest areas in China, inhabited by millions of people, and would also bring serious danger to hundreds of foreign residents.

During the day Vice Admiral Sir Howard Kelly, British fleet commander here, presided over a peace conference, attended by Vice Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, and Rear Admiral Yosuke Matsuoko, representing Japan, and Dr. Wellington Koo, former Chinese foreign minister, representing China. The conference adjourned without announcing any result.

Report Two Killed

The Japanese said they lost two killed and nine wounded in today's battle. A blistering barrage laid down by field guns was a signal for their surprise attack. Under that protection, engineers bridged Hongkew creek, and then, led by two armored cars and two tanks, bluejackets scattered the Chinese front line with hand grenades. A further advance was balked, however, by the stubborn Chinese secondary defense. Shrapnel was used with deadly effect on the fleeing Chinese.

The Chinese were reported hesitant to accept proferred peace proposals of the Japanese, fearing that they merely were a smokescreen to cover the arrival of additional reinforcements.

Tonight the clouds above Woosung were aglow from a great fire started by Japanese shells in the outskirts of the wrecked town, and the bombardment was still going on.

During the day's fighting the American Southern Baptist mission was damaged again when a shell tore through the wall of one of the school buildings. The property is owned by the Southern Baptist church of Richmond, Va.

SAFETY MEET HELD BY ERIE

90 Men Attend Session of Kent Division in American Legion Dugout.

Safety methods to reduce the number of industrial accidents were discussed when 90 section foremen, their assistants, carpenter foremen and track supervisors of the Kent division of the Erie railroad met here Saturday.

After a luncheon in Hotel Marion at noon, the men reconvened at the American Legion dugout on south High street for talks and a discussion of safety methods.

What the Erie railroad is doing in the way of accident prevention activity was discussed by N. E. Scribner of Youngstown, general road master and safety supervisor. His talk included suggestions to the foremen on means of reducing the number of accidents in their crews.

Thomas Taggart of the Bethlehem Steel Co., of Bethlehem, Pa., told how manufacturers are devoting an ever-increasing amount of attention to safety in the construction of new railroad equipment and devices. The manufacturer is vitally interested in safety methods of every kind, he said.

H. E. Wilson, division superintendent of Marion, also talked on safety methods, instructing the foremen to take particular pains with new men on the crews and to instruct all workmen to be constantly mindful of the danger of accidents.

The Kent division's maintenance of way department ranks fourth in the Erie system in its industrial accidents for 1931, P. F. Nichols, division engineer, stated. This division has improved its standing as compared with last year, he said.

Others who spoke briefly were G. L. Dunn of Kent, G. L. Benson of Mansfield and B. R. Perfect of Marion. C. A. Murtaugh and E. W. Farley, both of Marion, gave a short comedy sketch.

to have said that he got exactly 75 cents for seven lambs.

IN ADDITION, it is desirable to add that whether the lambs brought 75 cents on the farm and $83.70 in the market or not, it is desirable to eat meat and give it to your children.

The Japanese are a good fighting race today because when the Mikado looked at the big American sailors that landed from Commodore Perry's ships, and compared them with his undersized Japanese, fed on vegetables because the religion of Buddha forbade meat eating, he immediately ordered his men to eat meat and grow bigger, Buddha or no Buddha.

Also, when Japan fought against Russia, the Japanese found it necessary to stop the custom of feeding soldiers chiefly on rice, and substituted plenty of meat, a condensed food, for the big bowl of rice that weighted down their stomachs.

If you want your children to be strong, and if you want to keep surplus strength in your brain, instead of surplus weight in your body, don't be a vegetarian.

recently at the school. Lindsey isn't a bookworm, and he doesn't spend all of his leisure hours in libraries.

Last summer he was a star pitcher in recreation baseball, hurling for the St. Paul's English Lutheran church team. He follows athletics the season round. In summer it's baseball, in fall it's football and in the winter, basketball claims his attention.

Lindsey played in the backfield of the high school football team and won two letters. This winter he has been playing a good game of basketball and in the spring will receive his second letter in this sport.

He was one of eight juniors chosen last year for membership in the National Honor society. His high grades in Latin and French have given him a membership in the Roman Senate and Le Petit Salon, honorary societies of the high school.

Lindsey is a senior in the college preparatory course.

WHOLESALE PRICES RECOVER SLIGHTLY

Show Small Rise After Decline of 13 Weeks

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 29—After 13 consecutive weeks of decline the weekly index of wholesale commodity prices recovered slightly and now stands at 92.2 per cent. A year ago the same index stood at 111 per cent, according to H. E. Curry, of the Ohio Farm Bureau Research department.

"Farm products were chiefly instrumental in the index change this week," continued Curry. "Grains and cotton made substantial gains, which more than offset losses registered by steers and meats.

"It is believed in many quarters that the Steagall-Glass bill, providing for an expansion of the federal reserve facilities, is stimulating exports of some commodities, particularly copper.

"The amount of foreign trade of the United States for January was the lowest in many years for that month. Exports in dollars represented a loss of nearly 40 per cent over last year. Cotton was one of the few commodities that showed an increase in the amount exported. Cotton exports in January amounted to 932,809 compared with 537,607 bales for the same month a year ago.

POLICE "COURTESY CARDS" CANCELLED

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, Feb. 29 — There will be no "pull-dozing" of Cleveland policemen by friends of the city administration.

That was decided by Safety Director Paul W. Merrick when he ordered the cancellation of approximately 5,000 "police courtesy cards" which had been issued by his predecessor in office.

"Every one who obeys the law should be treated with courtesy by the officers, and I don't see why the cards are necessary," Merrick said. The only identification cards issued will be those to newspaper reporters, he stated.

Japan will establish several more radio stations for communication with other countries, including a second station for service with the United States.

D. J Medley was program chairman at a meeting of the Grand Prairie Parent-Teacher association Friday night at the school building north of Marion. The meeting opened with singing "The Star Spangled Banner" and the "Lord's prayer."

Mrs D. W. Hinamon, president, presided at a short business session, after which the following program was given: paper, "The Life of George Washington," read by Enid Hickman; reading, "Washington, a Leader of Men," given by Marjorie Brewer; vocal solo, "Just Awearyin' for you," by Miss Ruby Williams, accompanied at the piano by Miss Alys Fox.

C. B. Rayburn, county superintendent of schools, met with the association and discussed taxes. The program closed with singing "America the Beautiful." A meeting will be held March 24.

Tips on CONTRACT

BY TOM O'NEIL

The forcing takeout in contract is most useful, and at times highly essential, in reaching a slam contract. And it is a successful slam that gives players some of their greatest thrills.

TOM O'NEIL

The forcing takeout a bid in another suit higher than necessary, indicates to the first member of the partnership to bid that the responding hand is better than normal. In fact, the minimum requirements for a jump are three honor tricks with top card strength in the suit bid.

After a jump by partner, if the first hand to bid has more than the minimum necessary for his original bid, there are probably slam possibilities. Here is an illustrative hand:

	NORTH
♠-Q	J
♥-K	9	2
♦-K	J	10	9	8
♣-K	Q
	SOUTH-DEALER
♠-A	8	4
♥-A	Q	J	10	7
♣-A	5	4

With such strength divided in two hands there probably would be no bidding from opponents. South would open with one heart.

North, with more than normal support in the suit bid by partner would fail to reveal the great possibilities if he should assist the hearts immediately. Furthermore it might be possible that some other suit than hearts would best fit the two hands.

North has 3½ honor tricks, 1½ for the king, knave and ten of diamonds, one in clubs and half a one each in hearts and spades. Therefore he bids three diamonds, one more than necessary to overcall his partner's heart.

South now revalues his hand. From the strength shown by his partner's hand he knows that there is game, with the possibility of more, if the best contract for two hands is reached.

The hearts are strong South cannot support the diamonds. A mere game bid in hearts would be insufficient to picture the strength of the dealer's holdings. So he bids five hearts. North then shows his willingness to play hearts, his ability to support them, by bidding six hearts.

It would be very abnormal distribution that could prevent a little slam.

Daily Proverb—"Men hate sometimes those who have obliged them and cease to hate those who have injured them."

Statistics show that the last twenty-four months have been exceptionally healthy, but a great medicine company which paid an extra dividend only last December paid another this month. Can it be that people take medicine from force of habit?

About to sail for Honolulu, Lily Damita denied that she and Sidney Smith, a New York broker who sailed aboard the same boat, were married. This momentous matter having been settled, the world may now pursue the even tenor of its way!

In response to complaints made by a number of husbands in Bayonne, New Jersey, the city authorities made a raid, one night last week, and rounded up 290 married women gambling for money. It's comforting to feel that in a good, moral city like our own such a thing as this would be impossible.

With eight steel-jacketed bullets in his body, another dead gangster was found in Cleveland Saturday, the fourth victim of gang warfare within two days. As a deterrent of crime, the "experiment, noble in purpose" doesn't appear to be an overwhelming success.

George Horace Lorimer, editor of the Saturday Evening Post, was hardly within the facts when he told Chicagoans that Japan killed the League of Nations. The worst case which can be made against Japan is that she was an accessory before the fact to the league's suicide.

The Bucyrus Telephone company has announced that, beginning tomorrow, its operators will awaken subscribers at any hour for which a call is left! Huh! Nothing like that necessary in our case so long as people continue to dial our number for that of a local bakery to get hot rolls for breakfast.

General Maxime Weygand has been made peace time generalissimo of the three arms of French military service—the army, the navy and the air force. One of these days possibly, we may appreciate the value of a like course over here. As a matter of fact, there is already appreciation of the need of it, but as yet the appreciation has lacked the force to put the change over.

Japan has proposed to the League of Nations council that a neutral zone be established about the city of Shanghai which would be occupied by the military forces of the great powers. It looks a bit as though Nippon wants the powers to help it let go of John Chinaman's queue.

It has come out that Senator Borah, of Idaho, told Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, when the latter went to Washington last week to urge on his fellow-radicals a third-party movement, that such a course would be hopeless; that the insurgents could not command enough votes under the primary system even to influence the writing of the platform. The senator may have little faith in others, but he has a lot of respect for the teachings of political history.

He Didn't Disappear.

Disappearance of high-pressure salesmen from the daily American scene has been hailed gleefully as one of the good results of the economic recession, along with public determination to take the bay window off an overgrown and paunchy government. It is a sad fact, however, that the salesmen really haven't disappeared, in the sense that the dinosaur has disappeared. Actually, they are only in involuntary retirement.

It is a perfectly understandable public mistake to fancy that those energetic young men of a few years ago who sold you things you really didn't want were a distinct class of pest foisted upon the people. In such an erroneous line of reasoning it follows that high-pressure salesmen came from nowhere and returned to nowhere when their day was over.

Obviously, such a conception is wrong. The truth is that there never would have been such a skilled class of super-inflationists without a market, meaning, of course, that the same people who now are pleased by what they think is the disappearance of high-pressure salesman were the reason he appeared and flourished in the first place. Furthermore, they will be the first ones to give him an excuse to reappear at the psychological moment.

The much-talked-about psychological aspect of the hard times might be described as "mass fag." The United States had its night out during the ten years following the World war—and the high-pressure salesman was one of the boon companions. Depend on seeing him turn up again, spruce and smooth and more the go-getter than ever before, when it's time to make national whoopee again.

What 1,800 Business Men Say.

It has been the tendency of conversations on the economic recession to take on a tone of commiseration. Business men talking together sympathize with each other. It hasn't been the style to be cheerful.

A summary of 1,800 confidential letters from business men to the Kiplinger Washington agency is of particular value, therefore. There is likely to be more honesty in a letter than in conversation. In making a digest of the 1,800 letters available, the Kiplinger agency is performing a real service.

Hopelessness and extreme despondency are going out and are being replaced by a constructive attitude, the summary shows. Despite absence of definite signs of improvement, a representative cross section of American business believes the upward climb has started.

Permanent recovery before next fall is not expected, but the end is in sight. The discouragement of wondering just how bad the times really might become is no longer an important factor in the business outlook.

Wage-earners are up against it, but there are millions with means who are in a position to spend more—and may do so. Retail prices are felt to be out of proportion to lowered wholesale prices, which is one of the most interesting facts disclosed in the summary.

Excessive government expenditures are resented.

A number of business men are of the opinion that the greatest offenders in the practice of hoarding are their well-to-do friends.

The federal government's program to bolster business is approved for the most part, and the President's chances for reelection are reported to be improving. "He has received more than his share of criticism, and there is now a reaction."

Local relief situations are generally reported to be well organized and "satisfactory under the circumstances." Outside aid is not needed, except in a few large cities which are looking ahead with considerable apprehension to anticipated crises in the spring.

Perhaps the most significant single fact brought out in the summary is the admission by a considerable number of business men that they do not expect salvation through credit. Many borrowers admit they have had too much credit in the past. Bankers are criticized less, on the whole, than might be expected from the current of conversation.

Leon Trotzky last week expressed to the Associated Press his belief that the power of the soviet Russian dictator, Joseph Stalin, is crumbling. Ordinarily, this might be taken as Trotzky's reaction to that decree of perpetual banishment, but the manner in which Stalin is driving out of Russia all the bolsheviks showing any indications of ability to lead rather goes to show that the dictator is fearful.

Two Sides, as Usual.

Sentiment in Ohio's urban districts is pretty generally to the effect that a special session of the general assembly to consider the unemployment relief problem is inevitable. Considerable pressure has been brought to bear on Governor White to give the necessary executive order. He is being criticized severely for his reluctance to take such action.

The governor's position on the fence is an uncomfortable one, yet he does well to consider before he jumps. It is by no means a free choice between landing in a vacant meadow lot or one in which an angry bull is pastured. There is danger on both sides. Mr. White and the state both would be better off if it were not necessary to jump at all.

The Ohio chamber of commerce says: "Don't call a special session until it is imperative." Welfare workers say: "It is imperative now. The legislative mill grinds slowly. It can not be started too soon." Business men say: "There must be no increase in state taxation and no dangerous loosening of taxation restrictions." Welfare men say: "The needy must be cared for at any expense. They represent labor; they must be protected as completely as possible."

Governor White weighs the arguments and hesitates, postponing the fatal day as long as possible. He, perhaps more clearly than some of his critics, forsees the struggle between rural and urban factions in a special session of the assembly to provide relief for the cities.

Having made new world records for five distances, Sir Malcolm Campbell will make no further attempts at record-breaking this year, and will return home, taking his Bluebird with him. Well, a record for a short visit such as this he made to us this year would satisfy most people, no matter how speed crazy they might be.

The husband of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton has instituted a suit in the courts of Colon, C. Z., against the proprietor of a cafe there, charging the latter with defaming the character of Aimee through the publication of a formula for a "hallelujah cocktail" with an appended explanation that the name of the cocktail was inspired when she paid his cafe a visit in traveling across the isthmus under the name of Betty Adams. It's a punk name anyway. He might have called it "Tiptoeing Through the Desert Sands."

Three persons were killed when a car ran into the side of a Grand Trunk freight, one day last week, at Highland, Indiana. It's sometimes possible to beat the train to the crossing, but there is no recorded case where an automobile has succeeded in passing through one.

American shipping interests have prepared figures for presentation to congress to show that the abolition of the government-owned steamship services provided by the Panama Railroad Steamship line and army and navy transports which are maintained in competition with privately-owned lines are losing the last named $10,000,000 in revenue annually. A showing such as this would serve simply as an added incentive to some members of congress to plunge more deeply into government ownership and control. It would prove highly encouraging to the element which would have everything concentrated in Washington.

THE UNHAPPY WARRIORS.

Editorial Opinion.

THE AMERICAN SPIRIT.

The American spirit is quickening. The fact increasingly becomes evident. It is emphasized in recent utterances of the President and by a firmer note in the voice of congress. The vogue of ultra-pacificism is more and more discredited. The nation's guardians and leaders are more fully alive to the obligation of the trust reposing in their hands. Ominous situations abroad have ulated patriotism here. The thinkers of the nation more clearly perceive and accept the far-seeing admonition of Washington touching foreign involvements. The recent celebration of the 200th anniversary of the first president's birth, in colossal demonstration, has revivified and more closely bound together this people. These memorial demonstrations came at a time most opportune.

No longer ago than last June Secretary Stimson declared in a speech at Pennsylvania Military college: "Until our civilization has attained a much higher level than it has reached, the duty of national defense will remain one of the basic duties which a citizen must be ready to perform."

At this moment the United States—the world—sits above the dynamite of unleashed international passions, which at any moment may hurl civilization into a wreck of chaos. And the United States and the world must be prepared to meet such eventuality. We have as a people material wealth and resources, rights and privileges worth holding secure, worth defending, worth perpetuating. This can not be accomplished through the agencies of prayer and hope alone. Facts must be dealt with as they arise. As Secretary Stimson said, civilization must attain to a much higher level than at present before we can afford to cease locking the doors of our homes, discharging our police, and disbanding our armies and navies. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

BABY BONDS.

Small denomination United States government bonds—$50, $100 and $500—will be offered for sale within the next two or three weeks. They will not only be offered, but an aggressive campaign will be made to market them.

The principal purpose of the government is not that of borrowing money. The objective is getting hoarded money back into circulation.

It may be forecast confidently that the drive will be highly successful. Many citizens are in straitened circumstances. Many others are jobless and almost impoverished, but it is equally certain that hundreds of thousands of others possess large sums of idle money which would be invested but for the timidity and uncertainty that comes out of the fog which shrouds the future of business.—Toledo Blade.

A CUSTOM'S END.

A tantalizing sentence appeared in the London Times recently:

"A 600-year-old custom of playing football in the main street of Chester-le-Street, Durham, on Shrove Tuesday is to be abandoned."

The natural response to such news is to ask why such a custom should be abandoned. There is no answer to be found in the laconicism of the Times. It can not be the automobile that has put an end to football in the street, for the automobile would have discouraged the practice long since. It can not be a decline of interest in football or in customs, for both thrive in England. It can not be more than a coincidence that the abandonment of the custom follows departure from the gold standard, for upon a previous occasion there was departure from the gold standard without suspension of Chester-le-Street's ancient custom. Customs must come to an end, in common with all else, but the Times must be reproved for abruptness in reporting the end of this 600-year-old one.—New York Sun.

Sleeping Sickness Dangerous.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

"Sleeping sickness" is a term that has a kind of mysterious sound. As a matter of fact, the disease itself is something of a mystery. While it is undoubtedly a germ disease, no scientist has been able to discover the special organism that conveys it. It is thought that some virus migrates to the brain and sets up the changes which produce the disease.

Although a person of any age may be attacked by sleeping sickness, the evil results in affected children are especially severe. In many cases unhappy changes in disposition, unruly conduct, as well as hysterical symptoms, have been traced to causes unrecognized in the beginning.

The early symptoms of the disease in children are indefinite. Often the little patient makes no complaint, but seems dull and listless. He is inclined to sleep, and when aroused takes no interest in his surroundings, quickly relapsing into sleep.

Another type of case is ushered in by convulsions, nausea and delirium, inability to sleep. Some children attacked by this type of the disease are unable to sleep during the early part of the night, but at about 4 o'clock in the morning fall into heavy slumber which may last far into the afternoon.

The duration of the acute disease may be from a few days to a few weeks. The after-results may persist for months or years. In certain rare cases the child may seem normal for months, but later develop nervous symptoms of more or less severity.

Changes in the habits of sleep are most characteristic of the ailment. There may be pronounced wakefulness, or marked sleepiness, and sometimes the desire to sleep overcomes the patient at the most inopportune time.

Some children, as I have suggested, show a change in disposition, becoming cruel or developing thieving or lying tendencies. Although the mentality seems but little affected, in some cases hysteria, emotional instability and lack of self-control make the child a problem case.

The symptoms of brain disorder in other cases take the form of muscular disturbances, such as paralysis of the eyelids or the facial muscles, or there may be various movements like St. Vitus's dance which torment the unfortunate child. Difficulty in walking may partially incapacitate him.

Certain institutions for nervous cases have undertaken, with considerable success, the care and education of children suffering from the after effects of sleeping sickness. It is certain that in view of their unstable nervous systems, and poor adjustment to their surroundings, a special type of training is necessary to assist them to become useful members of society.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

H.E. Q.—Would it be dangerous to undergo an operation for gall stones while having yellow jaundice? Would such an operation be apt to cause a kidney infection?

Five Cents for a Full Meal.

BY ALICE LANGELIER

Paris, Feb. 29—I.N.S.—An interesting experiment in unemployment relief has begun in Rouen. For some time it has been felt that the various free soup kitchens did not adequately meet the needs of many people who would rather suffer hunger than join the soup lines.

Thus, through the efforts of the mayor a restaurant for the unemployed has been opened, with nominal prices, so low that the unemployed, temporarily in distress, can well afford to eat.

For about five cents, one can get a good meal of soup, meat, vegetables and sometimes a dessert.

The restaurant has been installed in an old unused church for which no rent need be paid.

For people who are fond of figures, there is probably no more entertaining report than that of the Paris police record.

The one recently published shows that the stealing of automobiles is decidedly on the increase. Three hundred and eighty more cars were stolen in 1931 than during the previous year, but 1,500 of the 1,756 were restored to their owners.

Suicidal statistics also went up, increasing from 1804 in 1930 to 1,965. The report shows that one out of every three drowned himself.

More than 10,000 stray dogs were confiscated and sent to the pound. With the doubling of the dog-tax it is expected that this number will go much higher this coming year.

Night raids on suspected establishments and street arrests netted 10,846 persons, of whom 1,028 were foreigners. There were 515 expulsions of foreigners and 827 of them were refused the "permis de sejour."

Eleven thousand, six hundred and forty crimes and offenses, including ninety assassinations were reported by the police force of 12,402. Two police officers were killed and 2,767 received injuries while on duty.

And speaking of more statistics, a striking decline in the wine exports from France is recorded for the past twelve months. Their value on a list of exports arranged in order of value occupied the fifteenth place. In 1913, it was ninth in order, and in 1903, third.

Prohibition in the United States is naturally the cause of the loss of this important market. Russia is also off the list, and some of the South American countries. Brazil and Argentine now produce most of the wine they need and can export some.

To help make up for this gradually-increasing loss, efforts are being made to win the Frenchman from his beloved "aperitif" and make him take a glass of good wine in its place.

Connoisseurs point out that these curious colored mixtures are as detrimental to the stomach as cocktails and urge the use of a mild dry wine.

Another suggested revolution is that restaurateurs should adopt the custom already established in some eating-places, of serving vintage wines by the glass instead of the bottle. Thus, the idea is, many people would form the habit of drinking a different brand with each course.

And still speaking of statistics, there is much talk at the present moment about butter which has increased in price by fifty per cent, within the past three months. It is one of those commodities which always shows an upward tendency during the winter months, but this increase in so short a period of time is quite unprecedented and is giving French housewives a very serious problem to deal with.

Butter is seldom used on the table, as in the United States, the French bread seeming to require less of it. But it is the diamond of the kitchen and every good cook uses a plenty of it in her cooking.

Matches too, are going to cost more very soon. A slight rise in price is estimated to bring in no less a sum than $20,000,000 a year. It is intended to provide some of the additional revenue needed to meet the unemployment situation.

Whisky and Mosquitos.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

Randolph township, Portage county, like most of the Western Reserve was originally peopled with immigrants from Connecticut, mostly Congregationalists, and Puritanical in their ideas of conduct. In spite of this, the conditions prevailing through the first three decades, caused most of the people there to become engaged in one way or another in the manufacture of whisky. There was little demand for the surplus grain raised, and no adequate means of transporting it, if there had been; so the bulk of it was converted into whisky, which was one product for which there was universal and constant demand. It sold for only twenty-five cents a gallon, but in spite of that, it seemed to be the best way of getting money.

In 1830 when there were not over 700 inhabitants in the entire county of Portage, there were in operation no less than 163 distilleries. Of course many of them were small, but the aggregate of their output was in that year 16,400 gallons of whisky. Then New England conscience began to work, stimulated by the effects of local drunkenness. Randolph had received its full share of the woe, and a temperance society was organized with forty members. By 1837 practically all the people in the township had signed the pledge. A great religious revival in connection helped the movement and the whisky business suffered a death blow.

The immigrants had found the country extremely healthful. It escaped the "chills and fever" disease that harassed the swampy Ohio district. In the first eleven years after it was settled, Randolph had but one death. Then people began to construct mill ponds in connection with their water mills, and ague came. Doubtless mosquitoes bred in the pond's stagnate water. The settlers did not understand it, but they did associate it in some way with the mill ponds and there were strong objections. But they had to have mills as they did not have to have whisky and the ponds remained.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, Feb. 29—Back in 1928 when Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, sought reelection for the first time from his headquarters in Yellow Springs there went out a document to the voters with this statement:

"The senior Ohio senator's ambition is not personal, but rather to do well the task before him."

We were reminded of that statement the other day while sitting in the senate press gallery watching the senior Ohio senator lash out—with a fury that could only come from conviction—at Borah, of Idaho, who was debating with him the question of whether the government should come to the relief of the unemployed with a direct federal appropriation.

If appearances count for anything, Fess was doing his dead level best to live up to that statement.

If you can imagine a man who looks for all the world like the traditional college "prof" engaging in a rough and tumble argument in the open with perhaps the "fiercest" and most feared member of the faculty, then you have a pretty good picture of Fess tackling Borah.

There are not many members of the senate who would care to engage in such a battle with Borah. Some of them at times seem to lean over backward to avoid getting mixed up with him in debate.

But not Fess, of Ohio, when he is convinced that he is right. And that is just the way he feels on this issue of the government appropriating money directly for the unemployed.

Fess is usually the first to rise on the Republican side of the aisle in the senate chamber to reply to attacks on the administration or to defend administration policies. He permits nothing of that kind to go unchallenged regardless of where the criticism comes from.

Much in the way a professor would lecture a lagging student, Fess reproves the critic. And always there is a liberal sprinkling of precedents in history in his chiding.

It is as if he was determined that the object of his reprimand should learn something while he is being shown the error of his way.

Fess admires Borah personally, even though they are about as far apart in their political thinking as two persons could be. And Borah has a healthy respect for his academic friend from Ohio.

This was shown during their debate the other day. They shouted and stormed at each other to the delight of the galleries, but at the same time there was evidence the motive, as Fess would put it, was "not personal, but rather to do well the task before him."

Recently Fess completed the biography of a great English statesman who in his early career was noted for his insurgency, but who when he ascended to a place of real power in the government pleaded for cooperation.

"I asked Borah the other day if he had read it," said Fess. "When he said no, I remarked, 'Better read it, senator. I have more sympathy for you since I did.'"

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

Badge of Conquest

On her bed Hope found the usual dozen telegram from her mother and an envelope of ship's stationery. This she tore open tremulously, finding it only an invitation from the captain to lunch with him the next day.

She went the next noon, mostly because her winnings had caused much excitement among those she knew and partly because Judy and Tom were also invited, and it was necessary to show Judy that there was no ill feeling.

Others had evidently been invited and had foregathered before her arrival. Even as the captain himself came forward to greet Hope and Judy and Tom, Hope saw, Saw Hickey standing, glass in hand, watching her. Saw Dickey rise.

The captain turned to introduce them, but Hickey came forward, hand outstretched.

"I know Miss Ross," he said genially. "I've been tempted to speak before on this trip, but our meeting was so long ago I was afraid——"

"Why, who could forget you, Mr. Dale?" Hope smiled up at him, her heart beating a trip-hammer. "Or Dickey? How do you do, Dickey? Is it too late to congratulate you on your show? Please meet Mr. and Mrs. Post. My old friend, Judy Hunt. Perhaps you remember. And Tom Post, who is almost nice enough for Judy!"

Automatically she felt herself go through the motions. But though the captain was a masterful host, and Lillian Toff's punching-bag conversation kept the room buzzing, Hope held on to the arms of her chair, and simply could not reach out to accept a proffered cocktail.

She heard the captain's words and heard herself answer:

"I'm afraid—I'm seasick. I must ask you to excuse me. I'm sorry."

Unsteadily she started to rise. And blessed Judy for the gesture that caused Tom to sink gracefully back in his chair instead of leaping to her assistance.

Another form rose swiftly. Another hand was under her arm. Another voice was telling her to watch the narrow, twisting stairway . . . .

Quite gently he guided her down the corridor and threw open her stateroom. She caught at his arm for support so that he had to enter with her.

A white streak leaped from the berth. And Sassy, huge and proud and soft-eyed, scratched at the rug and bowed before them.

Hope had not noticed. Her one thought at the moment was a breath of thanksgiving that Millie Seabrook was not in the cabin. But she roused herself as she glanced at Dickey, who was gazing, with an ugly expression on his mouth, at the cat.

"That — that's Sassy!" Hope laughed weakly.

"You still lug him around, huh?" demanded Dickey with a sharp and vicious resentment. "Oh, I've heard about it! You wanted me to hear about it, didn't you? Flaunting it up at Harmouth, so that it was the joke of the college! You've taken him everywhere and showed him off, trying to make me a laughing stock——"

"But, Dickey——"

Dickey, however, wasn't listening. He was bowing to the cat with a deep flourish.

"A triumphant badge of conquest!" he said flippantly. "But I've long ago got over that rub!"

He turned, bitter-eyed and aloof to Hope.

"I'll call your stewardess for you."

And without a second's hesitation he left!

For a second Hope stood quivering. Then, her hands outflung and fists tightly clenched, she screamed. Screamed at the top of her voice.

"I hate you!" her voice rang out and she glorified in the full power of her throat. "I hate you! I hate you!"

Millie found her roommate around 4 that afternoon, face downward on her bed.

Judy came, and the school teacher obligingly erased herself from the scene. Judy sat beside Hope and tried every known process. And when Judy was quite tired out and quite nervous about leaving Tom so long, Hope turned and said:

"If you're all finished, Judy, please don't let me keep you."

"Oh, all right!" At the door Judy hesitated and sighed. "Will we see you at dinner?"

"Sure. Of course, you'll see me at dinner. If you like, you and Tom can call by for me at 7."

"You—worry me, Hope. I've never seen you—quite like this."

"You needn't worry," Hope rose wearily, and pressed her small hands against her burning forehead. "You see, it's all over now."

She knew, even as she spoke, that she was lying.

"Now you're talking sense, kid. Well—you'll come out of it. See you at 7 sharp."

Sassy leaped upon the berth and put his front paws up to Hope's blue and gold negligee. With a sharp gesture of revulsion, Hope's thin white hand brushed the cat swiftly away.

How could Dickey have said that she flaunted the cat to irritate him?

With quiet deliberation, she sat down and wrote two radio messages.

DEAR RUSTY

"IF I STILL MEAN ANYTHING TO YOU WILL YOU JOIN ME IN PARIS AND WE'LL BE MARRIED STOP I'LL TRY TO MAKE UP TO YOU FOR ALL THE UNHAPPINESS I HAVE CAUSED YOU.

"HOPE."

MAMA DARLING

I AM HORRIBLY MISERABLE AND I HAVE ASKED RUSTY TO MARRY ME IN PARIS STOP PLEASE COME TOO STOP TELL PAPA HE HAS WON AND I HOPE HE IS SATISFIED LOVE

HOPE

In black velvet Hope appeared that night. To sit at a large round table with the Posts and the Carters at dinner, and drink champagne, celebrate her winnings, and tell funnier stories than she listened to.

And to laugh—uproariously—at the funniest story of all, that came in the form of a radio laid on the table beside her chocolate souffle.

Lower Cost, Less Crime Are Mayor Miller's Aims

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 29—"Economize government expense; then relieve the jobless and eradicate crime and graft."

In his characteristic straightforward and brief manner, Mayor Ray T. Miller of Cleveland thus explained his administrative policy, as he launched the first Democratic regime in the city of Cleveland in 17 years.

Although besieged with well-wishers and office-seekers, Cleveland's 39-year-old executive found time to outline his planned work in an interview with International News Service.

Miller's policy, needless to say, will be the program which served as his platform in the stirring campaign for office.

"The most important thing facing my administration," Mayor Miller said, "is cutting every governmental expense to the bone in order to meet a $2,000,000 budget deficit this year. A program of economy has been gotten well under way by Acting Mayor Harold Burton while he was in office and I intend to continue that policy with little change.

"Drones Must Go"

"Drones in the city hall—useless and overpaid employes, have got to go.

"While forced to economize, my administration also faces the greatest drain in its history to meet unprecedented demands for relief to thousands out of work because of economic conditions beyond our control.

"No definite plans have been completed for meeting this situation as yet but individual problems will be solved as they arise. At present, we will carry on the work started by the former administration."

Miller then launched into a bitter attack on what he termed "the shackled police department" and promised his unceasing efforts to rid the police of graft and to give the city the most efficient service possible from the department.

Already he has abolished special vice squads because they make graft easier and placed the responsibility of law enforcement on the shoulders of each precinct captain. Other transfers and changes are imminent, he indicated.

That Mayor Miller will be an aggressive executive can be visualized by the energetic manner in which he took up his duties after being sworn in the office.

He denies, however, any attempt to be a prosecuting mayor, replying to that query:

"I am no longer prosecutor. All I ask is that my subordinates and their employes cooperate with me fully in giving Cleveland an efficient and honest administration. If there is need for a crusade to correct an evil, there will be a crusade; if not, there will be none."

Mayor Miller is a husky, broad-shouldered man of average height but much better than average build.

He is one of a family of seven children and was born in Defiance, O., where he lived as a boy. He worked his way through Notre Dame, studying law and playing football with Knute Rockne, who later coached his brother, Don, one of Rockne's "Four Horsemen."

Coming to Cleveland, Miller became associated with Ed Moore and Wilfred J. Mahon in law practice, quitting the firm to run for Cuyahoga county prosecutor. He won the election and was re-elected, being called away in the middle of his second term to make the mayoralty race. His former partner, Mahon, is United States attorney at Cleveland.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge's Role as Audience to Mary's "Broadcast" Is Cut Short.

I CAUGHT my breath as I stood just inside the nursery door, listening to the "broadcast" that Mary had promised. I knew that she purposely had left the door to Baby's room open so that I could hear the conversation. Knowing how vitally interested I was in the scheme that Ronald and Mary were staging, to bring Marion to her senses about Charles Owen—

Caroline was the first to answer, but there was in her drawling answer none and words a soupcon of the feminine malice that all women are supposed to show each other occasionally, but which so far has not betrayed itself among the women young and older, of the family.

The End of the "Broadcast"

"I see Marion you say, she's decided not to holding out on her. Are you going to stand for that? Why don't you soak her one?"

"You get soaked twice, little one, if you don't modulate that Comanche yell you call your voice," Mary said, and I knew she had given Caroline the insult supreme in a Whitney Hall girl. "Auntie Madge is terribly afraid Faith will wake up."

"Then why don't you shut the door?" Marion asked in low tones that, however, carried to me. "Nobody asked you to come in here and wake us up, anyway. As for holding out on you, you've had as much chance to see Ronald play tennis as I have. I'm not his press agent."

No? Mary's tone was delicately provocative, but as she shut the door at the same moment, I did not hear Marion's retort, or indeed anything further.

But my soul was filled with unholy glee, for Marion's voice had been distinctly sulky, and I knew that the artillery was not responsible for the three girls were constantly "checking" each other. She was simply making a pretext of it to hide her chagrin over Ronald's apparent defection.

I went back to my book, content to have Marion in Mary's skillful hands and read until Baby Faith at last awakened. I was preparing her feeding when Mother Graham came into the room, patently placated and refreshed.

"I don't know when I've had such a good nap," she said. "I didn't mean to stay away so long. It's almost lunch time."

I hid a smile, for I knew what was in the back of her mind. She was hungry, as she always is upon awakening but she would not have admitted it for worlds.

A Summons from Lee Chow

"Why don't you go down stairs and have lunch with the family?" I said. "Then you won't have to wait for the tray, as you do sometimes."

I said to myself that if she ever had had to wait for a tray it had not come to my notice, for she is a martinet upon the subject of prompt service to herself; but I voiced the proposition gravely, and she accepted it promptly.

"That's right," she said. "Katie is slower than molasses in January sometimes. But what about you?"

"I'm not hungry, now," I said truthfully. "I couldn't eat a morsel until later, anyway, and I feel lazy. I really would like a tray up here."

"We-el," she conceded and then, as if afraid I might change my mind, she turned and hurried out of the room. I closed the door after her, for I knew that all the members of the household and the guests would be gathered at luncheon. Lillian would see to that and I was willing to let anyone play hostess.

I simply was not equal to the task of going through a luncheon with the consciousness of Dicky's thinly disguised jealousy of Hugh ever present before me. If I were not at the luncheon table, he would have no possible provocation to temper.

Presently from all over the house came the sounds of pleasant, well-bred voices. Later they all centered in the dining room below but Katie did not keep me waiting. Jim brought me up a beautiful tray, and I scarcely had finished discussing it when Lillian knocked, and then entered hurriedly at my call.

"Can you see Lee Chow now?" she said. "He want to ask you about that box of Marion's?"

"Surely. Where?"

"Why not up here? I'll send him right up. Incidentally, I have the Dicky-bird's feathers so beautifully preened that I don't believe they can be ruffled again today; unless, of course, Hugh begins to fancy that he's the reincarnation of Lochinvar or somebody like that.

"Don't look so tragic! Everything's all right, you among 'em."

And you'll score poor Lee Chow if you show him a face like that."

Seventh Annual County Court Tourney Planned by Y

ENTRY LIST CLOSES ON MARCH 8; GAMES COMMENCE ON 11TH

Four Classes Eligible To Play; Girls' Tournament Plans Also Under Way.

Arrangements have been completed for the seventh annual Marion county amateur basketball tournament at the Y. M. C. A. on March 11, 15, 18 and 19. There will be four divisions of play in the tourney, Class A, B, C, and D. Besides the boys' tourney, plans are being made for the staging of a girls' tournament open to all Marion or Marion county teams. Games in this tourney will be played on Wednesday night but definite dates have not been set.

The Class A division of the boys' tourney will be for players 18 years old or over; class B for players 16 and 17 years of age; class C for players 14 and 15 and class D for boys 13 years old or under. Members of the team winning the championship of each division will be awarded individual medals. The First Presbyterian Sunday school team won the class A title last season, Harding High Vocationals won class B. Central Junior High won class C and Vernon Heights Midgets won class D.

Entry Prices

The entry fee for class A division is $4.00, for class B, $3.00, for class C, $2.00, and class D, $1.00. Entries for the tourney must be at the Y. M. C. A. office by 8 p. m. of March 8. Each team will be allowed 10 players. Ages of contestants will be considered as of March 8, 1932. Members of high school teams other than seniors will not be allowed to compete in the tourney without permission of their coaches in order to prevent possible ineligibility for scholastic competition next year. Entry blanks for the tourney may be secured from the Y or the one printed elsewhere on this page may be used.

The Y. M. C. A. will not be responsible for any injuries incurred by players during either the boys' or girls' tournaments. Players whose signatures appear on the entry lists forfeit any right to claim damages for injuries occuring during tournament games.

Besides the girls' and boys' tournaments the Y. M. C. A. is planning to match the winner of the Marion city church league against the winner of the Marion county church league on March 12 in a game to determine the county Sunday school championship. Central Christian won the city title and Waldo Reformed is holder of the rural championship. Plans for this game are not completed yet. It is probable that a girls' game will be arranged as a preliminary to the title clash but the principals have not been named.

Jim Lindsay and Allyn Stout, St. Louis Cardinal hurlers, pitched in just one full game apiece last season, though in relief roles together they appeared in 65 games

SIMMONS SIMMERS

Here is one occasion when Al Simmons, hard-hitting outfielder of the champion Philadelphia Athletics, went in the box. But not to pitch—only to make a sacrifice of 15 pounds. Al was granted special permission by Connie Mack to take the famous baths at Hot Springs, Ark., before reporting to the A's spring training camp at Florida.

KRUSKAMP-LUMPKIN HEAD MAT PROGRAM

Hardy Kruskamp and Father Lumpkin, former football stars of Ohio State university and Georgia Tech will clash tonight at the Steam Shovel gym in the headline attraction of the regular weekly wrestling card. Lumpkin and Krauskamp will meet in a two-hour time limit match with two falls to win.

The semi-final of the card will bring Sailor Arnold into the ring with Martin Zikhoff. Arnold is claimant of the U. S. Navy heavyweight championship. This is likely to turn into a rough and tumble fray. The first match will be a 20-minute preliminary to get under way at 8 30 p. m.

LING GETS POST ON ALL-N.C.O. COMBINE

Towering Pivot Man Is Only Marion Player Awarded Place on Honorary Team.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

With the 1932 race for the 1932 North Central Ohio league basketball championship already little more than history, the time is at hand for selecting members of the honorary all-league team. The teams listed here have been chosen by representatives of several of the newspapers in the various league cities and officials of the league.

There are several instances where players have been shifted from one position to another. The reason for this becames obvious when one notes the numerous high class centers who have romped the N. C. O. hardwoods this season. There are four centers in the league who are good enough to play on any mythical team. To place one of these on the first five and relegate the other three to the bench would be impossible

Ling Gets Post

Harding High school has not been given a position on the first team, despite the fact the Presidents finished the league race in the runner-up position. There were several games during the season in which one or two Harding players flashed form which would easily have earned an all-league post had it been continued all season. However, none of the team played what might be termed championship ball in all of the games.

The race for positions this season was one of the closest in years. The teams were more evenly matched than they have been in a long time and this necessarily made competition decidedly keen. There are several boys who were not given a post on either the first or second teams who would be able to hold their own with most any combine. However, there are only 10 places on the two teams so some must be left out in the cold.

Jack Ling is the only Harding man to rate a position. Ling, while possibly not the best ball player in the circuit, was at least up among the top notchers. He was easily the sparkplug of the Harding quintet, despite the fact that some observers thought he was just another cog in the Bohyer machine His value to the team can better be judged by noting the effect when he was missing from the lineup in one or two contests.

If the center post was awarded on only the ability to gain the tip-off, Ling would be on the first team without any question. He controlled the jump in every game this season, even against Hartman, Mansfield's six feet, six inch pivot man.

All Around Players

With the exception of Gus Culbertson of Shelby, every man on the two teams is a grade A player, both on offense and defense. Culbertson is essentially an offensive player. On defense he is only mediocre but he is the best shot in the league and his uncanny ability to get baskets is all that kept Shelby in the running for the flag until late in the season. Culbertson broke the league scoring record set up by Hoekstra of Galion last season by tossing in a total of 105 points in 10 games.

Bob Seele, while playing with a weak team at Bucyrus, was always a tower of strength and was seldom outplayed. He is equally proficient on both offense and defense Seele is given a first team position over Jack Ling only because of his superiority in scoring.

Thomas Plays Well

Tommy Thomas of Ashland got off to a rather slow start this season but before the season was well under way he was playing bang up ball and he never let down until the end of the race. He is adept at handling the ball and a smart ball player.

The guards, Inwood Smith and Delnore Goldsmith could perform as well at forward as at guard Both stand well up in the scoring list. Goldsmith looked good in nearly every game despite the fact he played with a tail-end combination.

ALL-N. C. O. LEAGUE TEAM

First Team	Pos.	Second Team
Seele, Bucyrus	F.	J. Miller, Shelby
Culbertson, Shelby	F.	Morrison, Ashland
Thomas, Ashland	C.	Ling, Harding
I. Smith, Mansfield	G.	Brandon, Mansfield
Goldsmith, Galion	G.	Dolby, Ashland

Honorable Mention: Vestal, Harding; Hero, Harding; Brindle, Ashland; Burnison, Galion; Seymour, Mansfield.

BIG TEN TITLE AT STAKE THIS WEEK

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 29—Whether the Western conference basketball championship will remain at Northwestern, or move back to Purdue, is likely to be determined this week.

The Boilermakers are at the top with eight victories and one defeat, and three games to play. Northwestern is second, with eight victories and two defeats, with two to go. If games tonight fail to alter the situation, they will settle it in their meeting at Evanston Saturday night.

Minnesota, Michigan and Illinois were rated as mathematical possibilities, but that's all.

DRUMM WILL PLAY HERE ON TUESDAY

Blanchard "Doggie" Drumm will make another home stand Tuesday night at the Recreation billiard parlor against Penick of Newark in an Ohio Pocket Billiards league game. Drumm's Tuesday night opponent was previously announced by the Recreation parlor management as Shaw of Newark.

Drumm has already met and defeated Penick once this winter. Penick will be attempting tonight to hand Drumm the second defeat in 13 starts

OHIO FANS TO SEE DEMPSEY IN ACTION

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 29—Ohio admirers of Jack Dempsey are going to see a lot of the former champion during the next 10 days.

The "Manassa Mauler" will appear for two bouts in Dayton tonight, two in Cincinnati Thursday night, another pair at Columbus, March 7, and a fourth double-header at Akron, March 10.

Dempsey's opponents at Dayton will be Bob Phillips of Detroit and Pat Sullivan of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. At Cincinnati he will meet Jack O'Dowd of Detroit and George Trinkle of Oklahoma City. His Columbus and Akron opponents will be announced later.

Jack Ling, towering pivot man, scored 50 points in the ten North Central Ohio league games to top the list of Harding scorers in the campaign which ended last Friday night. Ling stands seventh in the complete list of league scorers.

Billie Hero is the second high scorer of the Harding team, having collected a total of 49 points, only one less than Ling.

HIGH SCHOOL TANK STARS TO COMPETE IN NEW OHIO POOL

Scholastic Swimmers To Clash Saturday at Ohio State University.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 29—A sample of the spectacle that will be afforded swimming enthusiasts March 11-12 when the Western conference championships come to Columbus will be available next Saturday when the state high school tank titles will be determined at Ohio State university. As an added attraction, the Buckeye varsity squad will meet Western Reserve in a dual meet.

Indications are that several fine performances will be turned in. In the northern sector, Cleveland Heights, Lima Central and Sandusky are outstanding, while southern representatives will come from Cincinnati, Hughes, Western Hills and Woodward.

Young, a Lima Central High school boy, recently swam the 100-yard back stroke in the amazing time of 1:08.7. Another performance that would indicate a new record was the 40-yard free style mark of 20.3 seconds rung up by Wolpaw of Cleveland Shaw.

Ohio State will seek to keep a clean slate against Reserve To date the Bucks have outspashed Michigan state, the Cincinnati Friars club, Indiana, Chicago, Indianapolis athletic club and Cincinnati.

The program for the high school meets calls for the 100-yard breast stroke, 50 yard free style, 220 yard and 100 yard free style, 100 yard backstroke, fancy diving and medley relay.

LEONARD, DELANEY TRYING COMEBACKS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 29 — Two great fighters of a few years ago, Jack Delanay and Benny Leonard, hit the comeback trail this week.

Leonard, retired undefeated lightweight champion, meets Billy McMahon, tough New York welterweight, in ten rounds here tonight. Delaney, once light heavyweight champion, comes back to fight Phil Johnson, Jersey City heavyweight, at Bridgeport, Conn., Thursday.

STOCK SHARES HOLD STEADY

Market Tone Continues Firm, Although Trading Is Apathetic.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 29—The stock market maintained a fairly firm tone today, but failed to make much use of leap year's extra day.

Trading was extremely apathetic, and while prices pushed up a point or two in many sections, bulls showed a little inclination to press their advantage. Stocks of companies serving the automobile manufacturers were notably firm, presumably in response to the Ford plans. Rails also stiffened, but stocks of automobile makers themselves did little, although Auburn pushed up several points. Among issues advancing 1 to 2 points were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, American Telephone, American Rolling Mill, Electric Autolite, Briggs, Ballard, Borg-Warner, Woolworth, Penney, National Biscuit, Borden, Case, American Tobacco "B", Dupont, Allied Chemical, Loews, and others. In the rails, Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, and Norfolk & Western moved up 1 to 2. Pennsylvania, was heavy, however. McKeesport ran into profit-taking, and General Asphalt eased, on loss of its suit against Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Co., Royal Dutch subsidiary. The Royal Dutch group firmed.

Railroad issues stiffened in response to the announcement of several substantial loans to carriers by the Reconstruction Finance Corp. Pennsylvania, however, eased in response to President Atterbury's statement that continuance of dividends would require increased revenues.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, March 1.

A SPLENDID day for business intellectual pursuits, new undertakings and matters calling for high initiative is assured by the planetary configurations in rule. It is a time for pushing with diligence and assurance, seeking the aid of elderly persons or institutions, but in all take especial care to safeguard the financial angles of transactions.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of splendid success, with new business and undertakings flourishing, and all pertaining to writings, publishings, publicity and real possessions active and thriving; but be careful with money, neither lending or speculating. Sign papers carefully and in private associations be on guard against treachery or malice. A child born on this day will be brilliant, energetic, resourceful and hard working and should gain good position by these qualities and by its tact and diplomacy.

GRAIN PRICES GET SETBACK

Lower Quotations at Liverpool Has Bearish Effect at Chicago.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 29—Contrasting with securities, grain prices went downward early today. Lower quotations on wheat at Liverpool, owing to enlarged supplies in Great Britain had a bearish effect. Opening unchanged to ¼ off, Chicago wheat futures subsequently receded all around. Corn started at a shade decline to ⅛-¼ advance, and afterward sagged.

Hopes of improved demand for North American wheat tended to curb setbacks in the market here. Another check on declines was that prices were so low few speculators apparently saw much incentive to sell. The fact that monthly unofficial domestic crop summaries were due tomorrow tended further to make traders temporarily reluctant to enter into new commitments.

Cables reported that as a result of heavy arrivals, stocks of wheat and flour at Liverpool had increased 600,000 bushels this week. A sudden cold wave overspreading European continental countries gave promise of larger purchases by importers in various directions. Meanwhile the amount of wheat on ocean passage was almost the same both as a week ago and at this time last year. Corn and oats followed wheat.

BOWERS FACING LIFE IN PRISON

"Why Mercy?" Farmer Asks on Way to Jail While Discussing Verdict.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Feb. 29—Roy E. Bowers, 58, charged with the murder of his wife on the morning of Nov. 18, 1931, was found guilty of first degree murder Saturday afternoon by a jury of 12 men. The jury recommended mercy. This carries a life penalty without hope of pardon. Judge Huston deferred passing of sentence pending filing of motion of a new trial.

The jury, of which Charles E. Hurd of this city was foreman deliberated one hour and 15 minutes and took one ballot in reaching their verdict. At one time during their deliberation the jury asked for additional instructions from the judge.

The Bowers trial attracted unusual interest in this county as it was the first murder case to be tried in the local common pleas court since 1906, when James Goodlove was tried on a murder charge and after a long legal battle, which ended in the state supreme court, ended in his acquittal. More than 29 years has elapsed since a verdict of guilty has been returned in a murder case in this county. In 1903 Philip Nagel was found guilty of the murder of William Wade and sentenced to life imprisonment for the crime.

When Bowers was taken to the county jail after the verdict was returned Saturday he asked Larry Martz, deputy sheriff, what the verdict was as he didn't catch it all. When told that he was found guilty and that the jury recommended mercy, he asked why they recommended the mercy.

It was reported that when the jury retired to the jury room to begin their deliberations that they took the board, through which a hole was bored through which the fatal shot was fired, and drilled a new hole and placed the gun through the hole and tied a string to the trigger and placed it around the stock of the gun and through the hole to the milk stool as told by Bowers in claiming that his wife committed suicide, to find out if she could have possible discharged the gun under those circumstance. It is reported that with her partially paralyzed right arm she could not have had the strength to pull the trigger and that with her left hand in applying the necessary strength the gun would always be pulled to the side before it would discharge thus making it impossible to have shot herself.

Judge C. H. Huston of Mansfield, who was appointed to occupy the bench during the trial, will return Saturday to sentence Bowers.

HOLINESS CHURCH HERE IS DEDICATED

Congregation Holds First Service in New Building.

Simple services marked the dedication yesterday of the new First Pilgrim Holiness church at Bennett and Waterloo streets. The new church, costing approximately $25,000 was worshipped in yesterday morning and night, for the first time since it was started in 1930.

Rev. F. W. Cox, pastor, presided at the dedication. A love feast, holy communion and the reception of members were a part of the services. The basement of the church, where services will be held pending the completion of the auditorium, was well filled.

Last night Rev. Mr. Cox delivered a sermon of thanksgiving on the subject, "The Saving Grace of God."

Rev. W. L. Lockwood of Christian, W. Va., will open a three-week revival meeting Thursday night. His services will be in the form of a second dedication, Rev. Mr. Cox announced. Rev. Mr. Lockwood is a widely known evangelist in his denomination.

Zachman Improves.

The condition of Richard Zachman at City hospital, is showing improvement, it was reported this morning. Although he is still only partially conscious, his general condition is showing improvement. Zachman, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Z. Zachman of south Prospect street, suffered a fracture of the skull when his motorcycle struck an automobile Thursday noon on south Main street.

NEED OF AUTHORITY STRESSED IN SERMON

Assistant Pastor of St. Mary's Church Preaches at Third Lenten Service.

"One of the crying needs of the present time is a recognition of constituted authority" declared Rev. Father Edward H. Summe, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church in the third of a series of Lenten services last night at the church. The church as on the two previous Sunday nights, was filled to capacity for the service. Non-Catholics are especially invited to attend the services.

"One of the fundamental principles of all life and its variant activities is that in everything that man does there must be one constituted to rule and guide," he continued. "Business enterprises have their heads, nations their rulers and families which make up the units of all society must be guided by parents who are commissioned by God with His same powers to rule and guide.

"In all of the most vital acts of man, his thoughts, desires, words and actions, there is some one to whom he must be responsible since he is not the cause of his own being, nor can anyone say that even human acts are not judged in a realm higher than the mere infinite. And this is what makes a religion with a sanction, because it must come from God as a deposit to man, wherein man is to be ruled in all that he does.

"It is certainly reasonable when we consider that all authority comes from God, and on the other hand, that subjective truth can only be so, as it is in its objective reality. Since man has a destiny beyond this life he must have a way mapped out for him by God from which he can never deviate except to commit sin. There is only one God and He alone can dictate the policy of a man's service to him."

The subject of Rev. Father Summe's sermon was "The Church, Her Power To Rule."

YOUTH KILLED IN TRAIN ACCIDENT

UPPER SANDUSKY, Feb. 29—John Kramesky, 19, known as John Kramer of Warren, was killed Saturday at 5:10 p. m. when he fell between two cars on a freight train.

The accident occurred about one half mile south of the Wyandot Clay Products Co., located at the southwest side of this city.

Two other young men, who were riding the train with Kramesky, told that the train, which was going west, had stopped here to pick up some cars and that they had stepped from the car, on which they were riding, to walk around until the train started again.

When the train was pulling out these two climbed on the car ahead of the one which Kramesky took and say that they saw him walking toward their car and that as he attempted to step from one car to the other they saw him disappear. They immediately climbed down from the car they were on and found his severed body by the tracks.

The young men told of first meeting with Kramesky in New York state and that they had seen him at various times since. Once in Pennsylvania and in Columbus and had spent some time together in Marion Saturday. They were told that he was on his way to California.

PARDON ASKED FOR WM. HART

MT. GILEAD, Feb. 29—Attorneys for William Hart, 35, Mt. Vernon grocer, now serving a term in the Columbus workhouse following his conviction on an assault and battery charge in connection with an affray which resulted in the death of George Addison, have petitioned Governor White for a full and complete pardon. The necessary application was sent to Prosecuting Attorney Fannie Myers and a statement of the case filed with the governor.

TWO MEN ARRESTED ON CHECK CHARGE

Ray Brown, 45, of Cleveland and Sam Henderson, 38, of 674 Hocking street, both Negroes, were being held at police headquarters today pending an investigation of a charge that they had been giving out worthless checks. One check for $8 made payable to Brown and which had been cashed at the Butcher Boy Market on east Center street, is in the hands of the police.

ARLISS IN ANOTHER "BEST PICTURE" NOW ON SCREEN AT OHIO

George Arliss has made another "best picture of the year" in "The Man Who Played God," showing at the Ohio through Wednesday, under the auspices of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs. There is the perfection of acting, direction, story and acting that are hallmarks of Arliss' plays. He is a great pianist, deafened for life while he is giving a performance in Paris for a king. He curses God, and is bitter towards the world. He attempts suicide but his butler, Ivan Simpson, saves him, both physically and mentally. He brings him back to a former state of humanness through a pair of field glasses with which he watches the young lovers and children in the park and read it's their lips, fulfills their poor needs. Eventually he praises his God and returns to his music. Bette Davis and Violet Heming are the two women in his life. Bette is the young girl with whom he is in love and who is infatuated with him until a younger man, Donald Cook, comes between them. Arliss sees their farewell in the park through his glasses and reads their lips. He gives her her freedom and when the picture closes, the audience is left with the feeling that he has found a deeper, steadier love in Miss Heming. The cast is splendid.

An interesting travel short of Oberammergau, a cartoon comedy and newsreel are on the bill. H. H.

"LAW AND ORDER" AT MARION

Every badman in Tombstone, Ariz., and several of the good ones is dead at the close of "Law and Order," which will close Tuesday at the Marion. Walter Huston, a peace officer and staunch supporter of law and order, comes to Tombstone to rest, but instead becomes a deputy marshal and cleans up the town, assisted by his brother, Russell Hopton, Harry Carey and Raymond Hatton. When his work is done he rides out of Tombstone, into other fields in need of his law and order. The picture is filled with good wild west shooting and excitement. A Charlie Murray and George Sidney comedy, an Our Gang comedy and a newsreel complete the bill. H. H.

19 RESPOND TO CALL AT REVIVAL SERVICES

Evangelist Preaches Two Sermons at Calvary Church Here.

Calvary Evangelical church was filled to capacity Sunday for the revival sermons of Mrs. Edna Beougher Hughes. Her sermon in the morning was on the subject, "Heaven and How To Get There," and at night her sermon topic was "The Final Record." Nineteen responded to the altar call last night. A young men's quartet sang several numbers.

"A man is lost, not because he did this or that, but because he neglects to accept Jesus Christ as his Savior," she said last night. Her sermon in part follows: "Do not go around professing to be a Christian unless it is all settled. There will be no mistakes in this record. You may be able to fool the preacher, to fool the people in your community, to fool your family, but you can not fool God.

"On that judgment day you will not be able to get by the Great Judge. Your record of sin can be wiped out by the blood of the Lamb. If you give your heart to Jesus and let the blood be applied, things will be different."

SOURCE OF STRIFE ASSAILED BY POPE

"World's Love of Fleshpots" Seen as Cause of War.

By The Associated Press

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 29—The world's love of the fleshpots, Pope Pius XI declared in a radio broadcast directed particularly to the Chinese and Japanese in the Far East, "is the source of disputes and wars that always have afflicted and still today afflict the world." His address yesterday was based on the virtues of Venerable Maria Assunta Pallotta, who died in China as a missionary.

"To those who suffer for still grave and violent conditions of things in Russia, in Mexico and in Spain," he added, "and to those who control the destinies of the peoples, our benediction goes with the strong wish and humble confident prayer to divine goodness that our paternal apostolic benediction everywhere and to all will carry and urge them toward Christian life."

He contrasted the virtues of the missionary he was honoring with "the spirit of the world which consists in a desire for the fleshly, in a desire for riches and in vanity of life."

The Noblett car was taken to the garage of the Haberman Chevrolet Co., on west Center street.

A car driven by Don E. Russell of R. F. D. No. 1, received minor damages when it collided with another machine at a filling station on the Delaware road yesterday. The accident occurred, it was said, when one of the cars came out of the station drive onto the highway. The Russell car was also taken to the garage of the Haberman Co.
